their own success, whilst helping their local community and feeling good about themselves. It's a really great idea and gives a lot back to the local community. This would not be possible without Gosford RSL who provides endless time and resources to the programme; they really do a great job. I would recommend Max Potential to any high school student who is interested in putting some time back into their local community.

Max Potential is motivational leadership programme run by Future Achievement Australia. It gets high school students involved in their local community with a Community Service Project. I first started Max Potential about three months ago, and I am thoroughly enjoying it! Students involved have a coach, who helps them along the road with their Maximisers. The Maximisers are a set of principals, which help the students to achieve authentic success.

My name is Grady Henshaw, and my Community Service Project is teaching music to disadvantaged students at a local public primary school. I am passionate about my Community Service Project because I am passionate about music, and I think it is a gift that should be shared with everyone, not just those who are readily able to access it because of his or her background. I hope to help to expose some kids who would not normally be exposed to music and playing a musical instrument. I want to pass on the love I have for music to others. I will be teaching my students some basic guitar, as well as doing music appreciation and musicology.

I wish there were more programs like Max Potential around, and more people involved in their local community the way Max Potential encourages its participants to. It helps its participants to achieve
